

Write a Food Review (0-15L)

There are people who make their living as food critics. They sample, taste, and critique food as their job. The job of a food reviewer is to accurately convey the taste, texture, smell, and presentation of whatever food they are reviewing.

Write a review of something you eat during this period of social distancing.

Your review must include:

- What you ate
- How it tasted
- How did it smell
- How did it look
- Any special seasonings or spices you could taste
- Explain the texture of the food
- How was the meal/food cooked or prepared

Use “colorful” language: include adjectives, the more descriptive, the better! A good food review should be a minimum of 2 paragraphs (10 sentences) and include everything above.
